Industry Overview

During the period under review, the local retail industry in Hong Kong was hampered by the weak economic conditions and the unstable political conditions in the U.S. The retail market for luxury goods, like jewellery, recorded a 9.4% decrease in sales in September 2001. Since consumer confidence remained weak, the jewellery industry has thus been heavily influenced.

As the China Jewellery market will be deregulated and the import tariffs will be lowered after the World Trade Organization ("WTO") accession, many Hong Kong jewellery retailers eyed this opportunity and have been building up contacts and establishing their brand images in China during the year through partnerships with local wholesalers or retailers.
